RECOMMENDATION FORM INSTRUCTIONS

Applicants for the Disability Rights Scholarship Program are required to submit three recommendations from professors, employers, supervisors, or lecturers. Your candid, honest responses on the recommendation form provided here will greatly assist in the selection process and help to ensure that successful candidates are placed in programs at host universities that best meet their academic goals.

Please note that universities consider letters of recommendation very seriously in evaluating applications, so please take the time to provide detailed answers.

Recommenders should note the following guidelines:

- Recommendations written in a language other than English must be accompanied by an English translation. Applicants may not certify their own translations.
- Recommendations from individuals outside academia (employers, etc.) should write or mark “unable to judge” for those questions that relate to purely academic issues.
- When possible, recommendation letters should be returned to the applicant in signed, sealed envelopes in time for the applicant to return them with his/her full application to program offices by program deadline of January 13, 2014.
- Recommendations may be completed electronically and submitted to the program office via e-mail or fax in order to meet the deadline, but an original signed hardcopy version must be submitted as soon as feasible for follow-up.
- Recommendations must be signed and include the name, address, and telephone number of the person providing the recommendation.
- Recommendations may be completed electronically and submitted to the program office via e-mail or fax in order to meet the deadline, but an original signed hardcopy version must be submitted as soon as feasible for follow-up.
- To address any questions or concerns regarding recommendations, please contact program staff. We appreciate your taking the time to assist this applicant
