

Dear Sir/Madam,

On behalf of the the organisers of Aquatech China and CDP, an international NGO driving sustainable economies, we are delighted to invite you to the release of CDP's first water report in China during the second edition of the Industrial Leaders Forum China. The theme for this forum is 'Exploring Sustainable Industrial Water use in China'. We are very pleased to offer you a VIP ticket to attend the forum, to be held in Shanghai on 10 June 2015.

ILF: Exploring Sustainable Industrial Water use in China

This year's forum will be kicked off with the launch of CDP's first water report focused on China. Including the analysis of 100 companies. It provides insight into the water challenges companies face and how they are responding. The report finds, among other things that water is a critical issue facing companies currently, with 24% reporting exposure to risk within their direct operations or supply chain. Despite challenges, there are also opportunities resulting from water. CDP can exclusively reveal that 31% of Chinese companies report opportunities, including Technology hardware and equipment companies Cooler Masterco and EMI Stop.

The report launch will be facilitated by CDP COO Sue Howells and expert panel contains of high level water sustainability leaders, such as Mckinsey, IFC, HSBC, Coca Cola and Suez Enviroment, discussing the case for action on water risks together with the audience. We gladly invite you as a VIP to join the discussion on how industry can improve water management, increasing the sustainability of industrial water use. The active involvement of the financial and advisory sectors in the forum completes the debate.
