

Biography Andre R. Jones

Andre is an international speaker and author. He is passionate about empowering people around the world to understand their purpose, encouraging them to become world changers and culture shifters. God has blessed him to project this message at major conferences, national television programs and the United Nations, just to name a few.

Andre is the President of Harvest Hands Philly, a Philadelphia, PA based non-profit organization, committed to seeing a better Philadelphia. Andre has had an established career in the banking industry as Vice President of Small Business Strategy and Development. Using his ten plus years of banking experience, Andre and his team, look to understand the uniqueness and needs of the communities, around economic development and education.

Prior to his banking career, Andre was the executive director of a New York City based non-profit program designed to engage and meet the needs of youth throughout the city of New York. As a result, he led his staff of 20 individuals to successfully create several sustaining programs that engaged at risk youth. Andre is certified in Lean Six Sigma, has a B.S in Business Management and holds an MBA from Eastern University.
